Evidence

Evidence from `web_search`

At the G20 summit in Rio de Janeiro in November 2024, Italian Prime Minister Giorgia Meloni stated that she understood the US's decision to allow Ukraine to use long-range missiles inside Russia, but Italy made a different choice (image:k, Source). The summit's declaration highlighted the human suffering in Ukraine while calling for peace, without naming Russia (image:0, Source). Additionally, Justin Trudeau met with Giorgia Meloni, and they reaffirmed their commitment to stand with Ukraine against Russia's ongoing war of aggression (Source).

Elaboration

1. The evidence indicates that Giorgia Meloni did not condemn the US-Ukrainian bombing of Russia. Instead, she expressed understanding of the US's decision to allow Ukraine to use long-range missiles inside Russia, while Italy made a different choice.
2. The G20 summit's declaration called for peace and highlighted human suffering in Ukraine without naming Russia.
3. Furthermore, Meloni reaffirmed her commitment to stand with Ukraine against Russia's ongoing war of aggression.

Final Judgement

The evidence shows that Giorgia Meloni did not condemn the US-Ukrainian bombing of Russia at the G20 summit in Rio de Janeiro in November 2024. Instead, she expressed understanding of the US's decision while Italy made a different choice. She also reaffirmed her commitment to support Ukraine.
