Elaboration

The evidence confirms that J.D. Vance, the US Vice President, was interviewed by the Wall Street Journal, and the interview was published on February 14, 2025. The evidence also states that Vance mentioned the US could use military "tools of leverage" against Russia.

The claim is partially correct. While Vance did not explicitly state that the US military action is available against Russia, he did mention the use of military "tools of leverage".

Final Judgement

The evidence confirms that J.D. Vance was interviewed by the Wall Street Journal on February 14, 2025, and that he discussed the use of military "tools of leverage" against Russia. However, the claim states that Vance said the US military action is available against Russia, which is not exactly what he said.
