Evidence

Evidence from `web_search`

The Council on Foreign Relations (<https://www.cfr.org/article/how-much-us-aid-going-ukraine>) mentions that Ukraine is the top recipient of U.S. aid since the Russian invasion in February 2022. It also mentions a $20 billion loan provided to the Ukrainian government in late 2024. NPR (<https://www.npr.org/2025/08/05/g-s1-81084/europe-us-weapons-ukraine-russia-war>) states that the U.S. has provided around $75 billion in military assistance to Ukraine since the full-scale invasion in 2022, and that President Trump announced a new arrangement to send weapons to Ukraine last month.

The CSIS (<https://www.csis.org/analysis/trump-administration-boosts-immediate-military-aid-deliveries-ukraine>) published an article on February 11, 2025, discussing the Trump administration's boost to military aid deliveries to Ukraine.

Another article published on July 25, 2025, mentions the administration's announcement of military aid for Ukraine. The Trump administration announced weapons sales to Ukraine totaling $652 million under the Foreign Military Sales (FMS) program, adding to the $310 million in FMS approved in May. The policy appears to keep in place the military aid committed under the Biden administration, which is set to deliver around $30 billion over the next three-and-a-half years.

Elaboration

The evidence suggests that the claim is inaccurate. The NPR article (<https://www.npr.org/2025/08/05/g-s1-81084/europe-us-weapons-ukraine-russia-war>) states that the U.S. has provided around $75 billion in military assistance to Ukraine since the full-scale invasion in 2022. Furthermore, the evidence indicates that the Trump administration was actively involved in providing military aid to Ukraine in February 2025. The evidence does not support the $350 billion figure.

Final Judgement

The evidence indicates that the claim is false. While the U.S. has provided substantial military aid to Ukraine, the amount is significantly less than $350 billion. The provided sources mention figures around $75 billion.

false

Verdict: FALSE

Justification

The claim is false. Evidence from sources like NPR (<https://www.npr.org/2025/08/05/g-s1-81084/europe-us-weapons-ukraine-russia-war>) indicates that the U.S. has provided approximately $75 billion in military assistance to Ukraine since the full-scale invasion in 2022, not $350 billion.
