The image

appears in multiple articles discussing the conflict in Ukraine. One article from Sputnik Africa, published on October 17, 2024, reports that Ukraine has lost around 40 Leopard tanks since February 2022, and includes the image. The Moscow Times published an article on June 13, 2023, stating that Russia had captured German Leopard tanks and U.S. Bradley infantry fighting vehicles in the Zaporizhzhia region, also including the image.

Another article from Defence Security Asia, published on May 19, 2024, discusses the destruction of German-made Leopard tanks in Ukraine and includes the image

. The article also mentions the destruction of other military equipment.

Elaboration

The evidence suggests that the image depicts destroyed tanks, likely Leopard tanks, in the context of the conflict in Ukraine. The image has been used in articles discussing the loss or capture of tanks and other military equipment in Ukraine. However, the evidence does not specify the exact location or date of the events depicted in the image.

The claim states that the image shows destroyed Ukrainian tanks during Ukraine's incursion into Russia's Kursk Oblast in August 2024. The evidence does not support this specific claim. The articles mentioning the image do not mention any incursion into Kursk Oblast or the date August 2024.

Therefore, the claim is not supported by the evidence.

Final Judgement

The image depicts destroyed tanks, likely Leopard tanks, in the context of the conflict in Ukraine. However, the claim that the image shows destroyed Ukrainian tanks during Ukraine's incursion into Russia's Kursk Oblast in August 2024 is not supported by the evidence. The provided articles do not mention any incursion into Kursk Oblast or the date August 2024. false
