Evidence

Evidence from web_search

The search results include articles discussing Keir Starmer's statements on the conflict in Gaza. One article from map.org.uk, published on October 30, 2024, reports that Starmer stated that Israel is exterminating Palestinians in Gaza, but does not mention a boycott of diplomatic relations with Israel (

). Another article from The Guardian, published on October 6, 2024, discusses Starmer's call for a ceasefire in Gaza and his urging for unity in Britain (

A BBC article from June 4, 2024, discusses pressure on Starmer to take stronger action against Israel, including sanctions, and shows protesters calling for the UK to sanction Israel ( ). The BBC article mentions Starmer describing the situation in Gaza as "appalling and intolerable" and repeating calls for a ceasefire.

Elaboration

The evidence does not support the claim. While Keir Starmer has made statements regarding the conflict in Gaza, including calling for a ceasefire and describing the situation as "appalling and intolerable," there is no mention of a UK boycott of diplomatic relations with Israel in October 2024. The evidence includes articles from October 6 and October 30, 2024, which do not mention such a boycott.

Final Judgement

The search results show that Keir Starmer has commented on the conflict in Gaza, including calling for a ceasefire. However, none of the provided evidence mentions Starmer stating that the UK will boycott all diplomatic relations with Israel in October 2024.

The claim is demonstrably false because the search results do not support the claim. false

Verdict: FALSE

Justification

The claim is demonstrably false. While Keir Starmer has made statements regarding the conflict in Gaza, including calling for a ceasefire, the provided evidence from sources like map.org.uk and The Guardian, published in October 2024, does not mention any UK boycott of diplomatic relations with Israel.
