Elaboration

The evidence does not mention the Turkish President urging the U.S. to control Israel. However, it does show that Turkey's Foreign Minister warned Israel not to stir up chaos in Syria in August 2025. The evidence also indicates that there were Israeli airstrikes in April and July 2025, and that Syria requested Turkey's support due to Israeli intervention.

The claim cannot be verified because the evidence does not mention the Turkish President's actions.

From Source: Content: CNN reported on July 19, 2025, that Israel intervened in southern Syria due to clashes between the Druze minority group and Bedouin tribes.

. The article mentions Israeli airstrikes and a ceasefire. The article also mentions that the Syrian government declared a ceasefire and sent in troops. The article does not mention the Turkish President.

Elaboration

The evidence does not support the claim. The search results do not mention the Turkish President urging the U.S. to control Israel. The evidence does mention Israeli intervention in southern Syria and related events, but not the specific actions of the Turkish President as described in the claim.

Final Judgement

The evidence indicates that there was Israeli intervention in southern Syria in 2025, and that Turkey's Foreign Minister warned Israel. However, there is no evidence to support the claim that Turkey's President urged the U.S. to control Israel.

The claim is not supported by the evidence. false

Verdict: FALSE

Justification

The claim is not supported by the evidence. While reports from sources like PBS News and The Times of Israel (<https://www.timesofisrael.com/turkey-and-syria-accuse-israel-of-fostering-chaos-in-syria/>) detail Israeli intervention in Syria and Turkey's Foreign Minister's warnings to Israel, there is no mention of the Turkish President urging the U.S. to control Israel.
