The web sources discuss the Israeli invasion of Syria in 2024-2025, including airstrikes in southern Syria and near Damascus in February 2025. These strikes targeted military bases and command centers, following demands for demilitarization and the withdrawal of Syrian forces. The sources also mention the possibility of Syria joining the Abraham Accords, the fall of the Assad regime, and a national dialogue summit organized by Syria's new government.

Evidence from image_search

The image search results include articles about explosions in Syria. The Los Angeles Times published an article about unrest in Sweida, Syria, with an image of an explosion

Elaboration

The evidence confirms that Israel conducted airstrikes in the vicinity of Damascus in February 2025. However, the image search did not yield any results that match the image

Final Judgement

The claim is partially accurate as it correctly states that Israel conducted airstrikes near Damascus in February 2025. However, the image provided could not be verified. Therefore, the claim is not fully supported by the evidence. `false`

Verdict: FALSE

Justification

The claim is partially accurate. While evidence confirms that Israel conducted airstrikes near Damascus in February 2025, the provided image could not be verified through reverse image search or image search, thus the claim is not fully supported.
