Evidence

Evidence from web_search

According to a Reuters article published on March 7, 2025, Volodymyr Zelenskyy's approval rating rose to 67% in March 2025, up from 57% a month earlier, based on a poll conducted from February 14 to March 4. The article mentions a "White House spat" between Zelenskyy and Donald Trump on February 28, 2025. ABC News, published on February 19, 2025, states that Donald Trump claimed Zelenskyy's approval rating was 4% in February 2025, while polls showed Zelenskyy's approval rating was over 50%

. Euronews, published on February 19, 2025, reported that Zelenskyy's approval rating was 57% in early February 2025, contradicting Trump's claim of 4% support image:0.

Elaboration

The claim that Zelenskyy's approval rating was down at 4% in February 2025 is not supported by the evidence. ABC News and Euronews reported that polls showed Zelenskyy's approval rating was over 50% and 57%, respectively, in February 2025. Reuters also reported a rise in his approval rating in March 2025, further indicating that the 4% figure is inaccurate.

Final Judgement

The claim is demonstrably false. Multiple sources, including Reuters, ABC News, and Euronews, show that Zelenskyy's approval rating in February 2025 was significantly higher than 4%. false

Verdict: FALSE

Justification

The claim is false. Multiple sources, including a Reuters article (<https://www.reuters.com/world/europe/zelenskiys-approval-rating-rises-ukraine-after-trump-spat-poll-shows-2025-03-07/>), ABC News (<https://abcnews.go.com/International/zelenskyy-4-approval-trump-claims-50/story?id=118959595>), and Euronews (<https://www.euronews.com/2025/02/19/zelenskyys-approval-rating-grows-to-57-debunking-trumps-4-support-claim>), indicate that Zelenskyy's approval rating was significantly higher than 4% in February 2025.
