The image search results confirm that Gal Gadot's star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame was damaged. The Los Angeles Times published an article about the star. The provided evidence does not mention the exact date when the star was damaged. The claim states that the damage occurred in March 2025, but this information is not explicitly confirmed by the evidence.

The evidence includes a link to an article from the Los Angeles Times, which could potentially contain the date of the incident. However, without reviewing the article, it is impossible to verify the claim's date.

Therefore, the claim's veracity cannot be fully determined without additional information. Specifically, the date of the damage needs to be verified.

Entertainment Weekly reports that Gal Gadot's Hollywood Walk of Fame star ceremony took place on March 18, 2025, and was disrupted by protestors. The Logical Indian debunked the claim that Gal Gadot's star was damaged, stating that the photo circulating online actually depicts damage to Donald Trump's star from an incident in 2018. Yahoo also reports that Gal Gadot received her star on March 18, 2025, and that an image hinting at the star being destroyed went viral, but has not been verified.
