

Claim

Claim: "American football player Colin Kaepernick said he will go to Russia if not properly respected in the United States."

Actions

```
web_search("Colin Kaepernick Russia statement")
```

Evidence

Evidence from web_search

Reuters published a fact check stating the claim originated in a satirical article. The article quoted a Kaepernick spokesman saying that he "would never think about leaving." (<https://www.reuters.com/article/world/fact-check-article-saying-colin-kaepernick-has-threatened-to-leave-the-united-s-idUSKBN27I2D7/>) A Business Insider article discusses how Russian trolls used the NFL kneeling debate and Colin Kaepernick to stoke racial divisions

. (<https://www.businessinsider.com/russian-trolls-used-colin-kaepernick-nfl-kneeling-debate-divide-2019-10>)

A Wired article discusses Kaepernick's activism and the reaction to his Nike advertisement, mentioning that Russian disinformation campaigns amplified anti-Nike sentiment on Twitter, but does not mention any statements by Colin Kaepernick about going to Russia. (<https://www.wired.com/story/nike-boycott-colin-kaepernick-russia-twitter/>)

Elaboration

The claim is false. A Reuters fact check indicates the statement originated in a satirical article. Furthermore, a spokesman for Kaepernick stated that he "would never think about leaving."

Final Judgement

The claim that Colin Kaepernick said he would go to Russia if not properly respected in the United States is false. The statement originated in a satirical article, and a Kaepernick spokesman denied the claim.

false

Verdict: FALSE

Justification

The claim is false. A Reuters fact-check (<https://www.reuters.com/article/world/fact-check-article-saying-colin-kaepernick-has-threatened-to-leave-the-united-s-idUSKBN27I2D7/>) found that the statement originated in a satirical article, and a Kaepernick spokesman denied the claim.