

Claim

Claim: "An Algerian judo athlete withdrew from his Olympics 2024 match against an Israeli opponent."

Actions

`image_search("Algerian judo athlete withdraws Olympics 2024 Israeli opp`

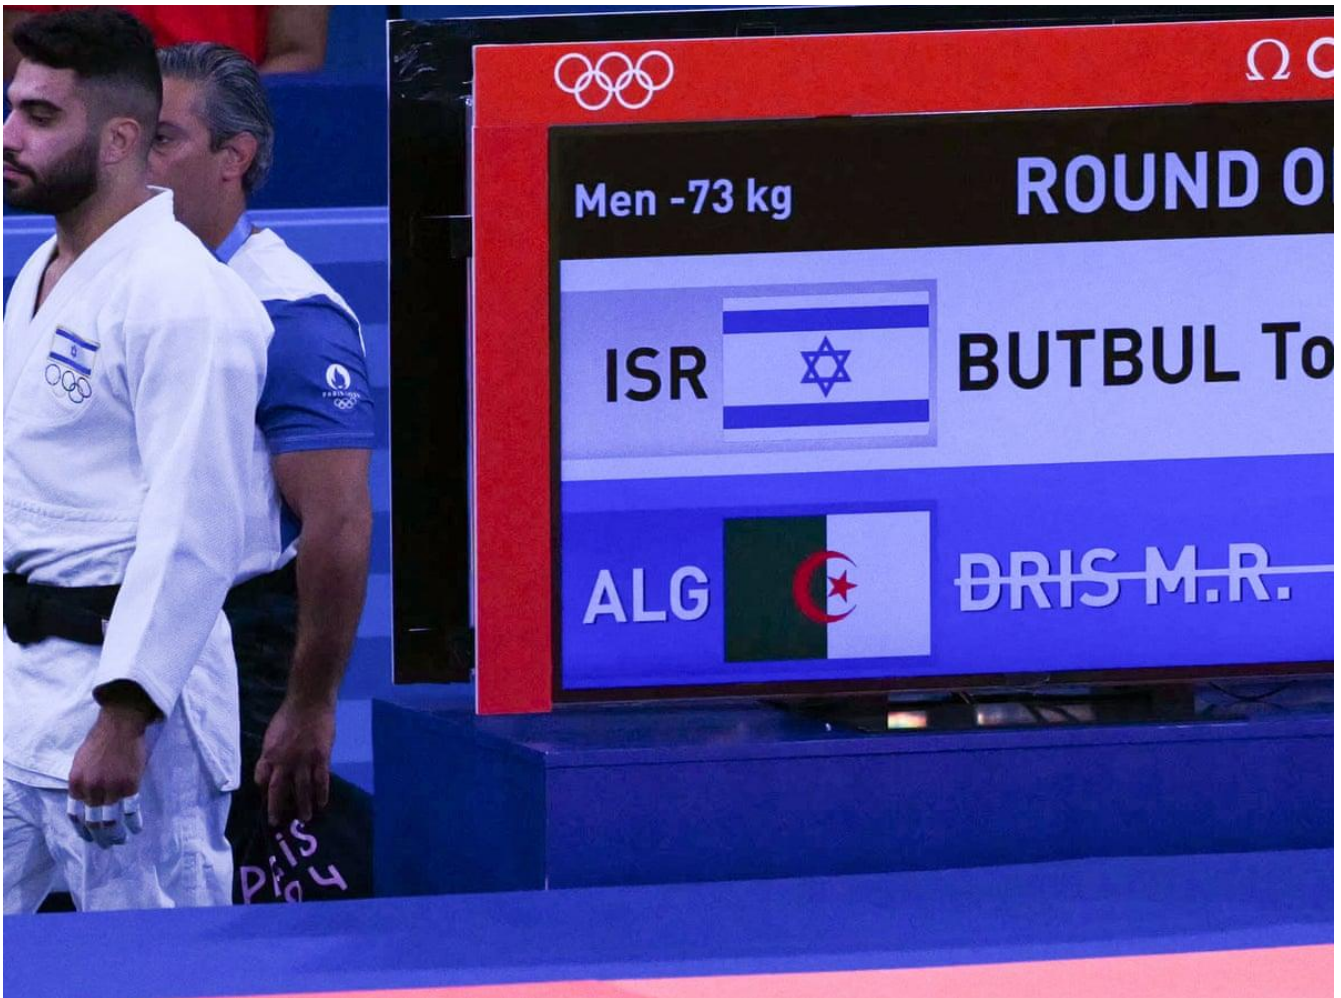

Evidence

Evidence from `image_search`

The BBC Sport website contains an image of a judo athlete

(Source). The Guardian reports that an Algerian judoka, Dris M.R., was investigated after failing to make weight for a bout with Israeli judoka Butbul

(Source).

Elaboration

The evidence indicates that an Algerian judoka, Dris M.R., was investigated for not making weight for a match against Israeli judoka Butbul. This suggests a withdrawal, as failing to make weight would prevent the match from taking place. The Guardian's report supports the claim.

Final Judgement

The search results from BBC Sport and The Guardian confirm that an Algerian judoka, Dris M.R., was investigated for failing to make weight for a match against an Israeli opponent, Butbul. This implies a withdrawal from the match.

true

Verdict: TRUE

Justification

An Algerian judoka, Dris M.R., was investigated for failing to make weight for a match against Israeli judoka Butbul, which effectively resulted in a withdrawal from the competition, as reported by The Guardian.