Evidence from web_search

Jamie White, an Infowars reporter, was shot dead in Austin, Texas, as reported by the New York Times and latintimes.com. White had posted on social media that he was on a "Ukrainian 'Enemies List.'" The Austin police believe the shooting was a random attack. Alex Jones has spread misinformation about the killing.

StopFake.org states that White was murdered on March 9, and his sister and local police believe his death was unrelated to his journalistic activities. The article claims that White was not on any "list of enemies of Ukraine" and that the screenshot he posted of the alleged "list" does not match the Myrotvorets website.

The article also mentions that White frequently spread disinformation and anti-Ukrainian conspiracy theories.

Elaboration

The evidence confirms that Jamie White, an InfoWars reporter, was shot dead in Austin, Texas, on March 10, 2025. However, the claim that it was revealed he was on a Ukrainian enemies hit list is disputed. While White claimed to be on such a list, and Alex Jones spread misinformation about the killing, the Austin police believe the shooting was a random attack. Furthermore, StopFake.org states that White was not on any "list of enemies of Ukraine" and that the screenshot he posted of the alleged "list" does not match the Myrotvorets website.

Final Judgement

The claim that it was revealed Jamie White was on a Ukrainian enemies hit list is not supported by the evidence. While White claimed to be on such a list, and Alex Jones spread misinformation about the killing, the Austin police believe the shooting was a random attack. Furthermore, the evidence indicates that White was not on any "list of enemies of Ukraine."

false

Verdict: FALSE

Justification

The claim that it was revealed Jamie White was on a Ukrainian enemies hit list is not supported. While White claimed to be on such a list, and Alex Jones spread misinformation, the Austin police believe the shooting was a random attack, and evidence suggests White was not on any such list (<https://www.nytimes.com/2025/03/12/us/infowars-murder-alex-jones.html>, <https://www.latintimes.com/infowars-reporter-assassinated-ukraine-outside-his-home-conspiracy-theorists-claim-578436>).
