Evidence

Evidence from `web_search`

The Council on Foreign Relations (<https://www.cfr.org/article/how-much-us-aid-going-ukraine>) states that Ukraine is the top recipient of U.S. aid since the Russian invasion in February 2022. The article mentions a $20 billion loan in late 2024 and a temporary freeze on military aid by President Trump in early March 2025. NPR (<https://www.npr.org/2025/08/05/g-s1-81084/europe-us-weapons-ukraine-russia-war>) reported around $75 billion in military assistance since the full-scale invasion in 2022.

CSIS (<https://www.csis.org/analysis/trump-administration-boosts-immediate-military-aid-deliveries-ukraine>) reported on February 11, 2025, that the Trump administration announced weapons sales to Ukraine totaling $652 million, in addition to $310 million approved in May. The policy appears to keep in place the military aid committed under the Biden administration, which is set to deliver around $30 billion over the next three-and-a-half years.

Elaboration

The evidence indicates that the U.S. has provided significant military aid to Ukraine. However, the provided sources do not support the claim of $350 billion in military aid as of February 2025. NPR reports around $75 billion in military assistance since the full-scale invasion in 2022. CSIS reports on weapons sales totaling $652 million in February 2025. The evidence also mentions a $20 billion loan in late 2024 and a planned $30 billion over the next three-and-a-half years.

The claim is not supported by the evidence. The provided sources do not mention the amount of $350 billion.

To verify the claim, I would need more specific data on the total military aid provided by the U.S. to Ukraine as of February 2025.

Final Judgement

The evidence shows that the U.S. has provided military aid to Ukraine, but the amount mentioned in the claim ($350 billion) is not supported by the provided sources. The sources mention different amounts, such as $75 billion since 2022 and $652 million in weapons sales in February 2025.

false

Verdict: FALSE

Justification

The claim that the United States had given $350 billion in military aid to Ukraine as of February 2025 is not supported by the evidence. While the U.S. has provided significant aid, sources like NPR report around $75 billion in military assistance since 2022, and CSIS reports on weapons sales totaling $652 million in February 2025.
