Elaboration

Giorgia Meloni did not condemn the US-Ukrainian bombing of Russia. Instead, she stated that she understood the US's decision to allow Ukraine to use long-range missiles inside Russia, but Italy made a different choice. The G20 summit's declaration called for peace without naming Russia.

The evidence suggests that Meloni's stance was nuanced, acknowledging the US decision while Italy maintained a different approach.

Final Judgement

Giorgia Meloni did not condemn the US-Ukrainian bombing of Russia at the G20 summit. She expressed understanding of the US's decision while Italy chose a different path. The summit's declaration focused on peace without directly naming Russia.
