Evidence

Evidence from reverse_search

The image of the Economist cover featuring Donald Trump and Vladimir Putin is altered and not authentic. PesaCheck states that the original cover from March 16, 2024, did not include the images of Trump and Putin and the altered cover lacks a publication date. DW.com and Ukrinform.net also confirm that the image is a fake cover created by Russian propagandists, with the headline "Apocalypse" and missiles in the background, and that the actual Economist issue from November 16, 2024, depicted a globe being struck by a golf club.

"The Economist" warms up the audience with apocalyptic images. But what does Trump have to do with it if Biden's gang is starting a nuclear war? Apparently, this is what they are going to leave Trump as an inheritance

Elaboration

The claim is false. The evidence indicates that the image is a manipulated cover of The Economist magazine. The original cover from March 16, 2024, did not feature Trump and Putin, and the altered version lacks a publication date. Furthermore, the actual Economist issue from November 16, 2024, depicted a globe being struck by a golf club.

Final Judgement

The image is a manipulated cover of The Economist magazine, not an authentic one. The original cover did not feature Trump and Putin, and the actual issue from November 16, 2024, had a different image.
